ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4955-3170>

Professional Experience

2018 – 2024 Assistant Professor, Department of Educational Psychology, Texas A&M University.

Professional Preparation

2015 – 2017 Postdoctoral Research Associate, Florida State University, Florida Center for Reading Research and Department of Psychology.

2015 Ph.D., University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. Major: Special Education.

2003 B.A., University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. Double Major: English and German Language and Literature.

Research

Research Interests

- Typical and atypical reading development,
- predictive factors of reading achievement,
- dyslexia and other forms of reading disabilities,
- individual differences in reading ability and disability.

ISI Ranking: 10/73 (Educational Psychology), GC = 52, IF (2022) = 4.200

This publication won the 2023 Dina Feitelson Research Award by the International Literacy Association. This article was recognized by the Wiley Publisher as “a top downloaded article in 2022 in the Reading Research Quarterly.”

This article has done exceptionally well in terms of attracting online attention. According to Altmetric (September 9, 2022), the article is on the 98th percentile of online attention of all research outputs across all sources. The article is also on the 98th percentile of online attention of all outputs from the journal Reading Research Quarterly. The average Altmetric Attention Score for Reading Research Quarterly articles is 9.8, while our article has an Altmetric Attention Score of 94. In addition, the article is ranked #1 in outputs of similar age (within six weeks on either side of this one) from Reading Research Quarterly.

My doctoral student led this publication. I provided mentorship and guidance and contributed to the paper in terms of conceptualization, methodology, formal analysis, data curation, writing – original draft, writing – review & editing, and supervision.

New Course Development

SPED 689: Special Topics: Intervention Design (2025)

I developed and designed this new doctoral-level course, which will be taught for the first time in Summer 2025. This is an elective course for doctoral students enrolled in any Ph.D. program in the College of Education and Human Development at Texas A&M University. The course focuses on design processes used to develop instructional interventions for students with diverse instructional needs (e.g., designing a logic model, randomized controlled trials in practice, statistical analyses of results from experiments, power analysis, non-compliance, attrition, and budget planning). This course will be instrumental in expanding the specialized course offerings in the special education program and college, and is strongly aligned with my broader research program.

CV for Florina Erbeli, Ph.D., updated June 22, 2025

SPED 689: Special Topics: Neuropsychological and Genetic Perspectives of Reading (2020)

I developed and designed this new doctoral-level course in 2020. This was an elective course for doctoral students enrolled in any Ph.D. program in the College of Education and Human Development at Texas A&M University. The course focused on neuropsychological and genetic perspectives of reading and professional development for doctoral students. This course has been instrumental in expanding the specialized course offerings in the special education program and college, and is strongly aligned with my broader research program. Unfortunately, I could not teach the class in 2020 due to being on medical leave because of the pandemic. My colleague taught the course instead and garnered favorable appraisals from the students.

Former Doctoral Committee Chair

1. Rice, M., graduate. (2024).

-- Marianne Rice is now a tenure-track assistant professor at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

Current Doctoral Committee Chair

1. Bishop, M. E., doctoral student (2022 – present).

Megan E. Bishop's Honors and Awards

-- Megan E. Bishop is a recipient of the 2024 college-level graduate research award by the College of Education and Human Development at Texas A&M University. This award supported Megan to conduct a systematic review of handwriting interventions.

-- Megan E. Bishop is a recipient of the 2023 program-level travel award by the Texas A&M University, Department of Education, Special Education Program.

-- Megan E. Bishop is a recipient of a 2022 departmental-level travel award by the Texas A&M University Educational Psychology Student Organization. The award supported Megan's presenting research at the 2022 International Dyslexia Association Annual Conference.

-- Megan E. Bishop is funded through the RISE Scholars Network project. The RISE project is financially supported by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs.

2. Xu, Y., doctoral student (2023 – present).

Ying Xu's Honors and Awards

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of the 2025 Taylor & Francis Award by the Society for the Scientific Study of Reading (SSSR). This international-level award is given annually to promising young investigators.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of the 2025 college-level graduate research award by the College of Education and Human Development at Texas A&M University. This award supported Ying to conduct a meta-analysis of the long-term effects of reading instruction.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of a 2024 International Dyslexia Association (IDA) Scholarship. This national-level award supported Ying to attend the 2024 IDA Annual Conference.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of a 2024 International Texas Public Education Grant. This is a competitive state grant for international students with financial needs who are seeking a first bachelor's degree, graduate degree, or professional degree.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of a travel award by the Graduate and Professional School at Texas A&M University. This university-level award supported Ying in attending the Society for Scientific Studies of Reading Annual Meeting in Copenhagen, Denmark in July 2024.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of the 2024 university-level International Education Fee Scholarship by Texas A&M University. This scholarship is awarded to international students in recognition of achievements in academics, leadership, and service.

-- Ying Xu is a recipient of the 2023 program-level travel award by the Texas A&M University, Department of Education, Special Education Program.
